"And The Seasons They Go Round And Round. . ."

In every life there are many seasons, turning from year to year, forming life's perfect circle. And with each rotation time takes to close the sphere, there is a new beginning. As winter flows into spring, new life emerges, and we see a renaissance in progress. The cycle continues, and summer is already behind us, with autumn ushering in a new school year. Again, we see the cycle with the first snow fall and winter begins once more. With the decade of the 80's upon us, we can look forward to times of learning, growing, achieving, times for experiencing the new and savoring the old. As with all new experiences, we shall grow. Thus, another revolution is complete.

"And the painted ponies go up and down
We're captive on a carousel of time
We can't return, we can only look behind from where we came
And go round and round and round in the circle game."

Joni Mitchell

The everpresence of circles in our lives is clearly apparent. Constantly we come in contact with roundness, whether it be in wheels, clocks, balls or mirrors. Something as simple as a bubble can symbolize the importance of circles. One cannot pinpoint its beginning or its end. The cycles continue forever, as do life's experiences.

As we evolve from day to day in the daily cycle of life, we experience many different thoughts and reactions. Often we are happy for we find ourselves revolving in a positive direction. As we continue our journey within the circle, disagreements, misunderstandings, and hurt feelings may appear, thus shattering our happiness temporarily. Our feelings and moods change depending on outside interactions and how they affect us. Our behavior depends largely on the treatment of others influencing us. Individuals react differently; our moods rotate at unequal rates. Because of our separate revolutions, we may cry while others laugh; we may smile while others frown. The moods of people and the situations facing them depend on individual personalities and unique experiences.

The senior year becomes a circle in itself. Just as one thinks he has come to an end, that he has achieved superiority among all other classes, that his goals for graduating have been met, that his high school life is finally over; he discovers that he must begin again. Leaving LHS, he must set out on new adventures. If attending college, he must start as a freshman. If pursuing an occupation, he must begin at the bottom and work his way to the top once more. New challenges and experiences face him.

By the time the fourth year at LHS arrives a senior has earned respect and superiority among his peers. He expects adult privileges and advantages; after four years of hard work and study, he looks forward to rewards and celebrations. Thinking about end-of-year activities, the proud senior plans reservations for the prom and banquet, the senior class play, Senior Week.

and graduation. The excitement and anxiety begin.

Finally, each senior experiences the same frustrations and pressures of graduating: College Board Tests must be taken, interviews must be arranged, applications for future education must be filled out, and life beyond LHS must be outlined. All these activities create hectic circles in which the senior is trapped on the outer edges, trying to find his way inside.

Yet when graduation finally arrives, and all the work and struggle merges into one day, the circle radiates outward. Entering a new life style after LHS, one must begin again as he has done before. New goals will be set, new adventures will commence, and the process will continue. High school memories are safely packed away; new ones begin.

Inside the large circle of LHS one also finds many smaller circles. Names and faces move about in our own circles of friendship which change with each swing that time takes through the years.

LHS offers many circles of activities which enhance friendships and strengthen skills. One tries to better himself in the circle of sports, progressing from freshmen teams to junior varsity and varsity teams. The competition present in these particular spheres helps us come to terms with defeat as well as glory. There are various clubs that meet our individual concerns. We take courses pertaining to our interests and abilities. All of these sections of the circle help us to achieve goals and gain pride from personal accomplishment. The circles we encounter at LHS are only a part of a much greater whole.

We begin life rotating on tiny circles with no faults and no favorable qualities. As we grow and expand our foundation, we realize that we are not perfect. Our circles seem lopsided. While growing, many imperfections disappear, while some become more apparent. We strive to become better and often feel as though we exist on a pendulum. For every time we get ahead, we swing back to where we were before. When we finally learn from our mistakes, we are granted one step forward, a new circle to experiment with. Pace by pace, we come closer to our dreams that continually trigger the development of still more. As we expand our horizons, our circles become more diverse while we reach for our own individual idea of perfection.

Archie . . .

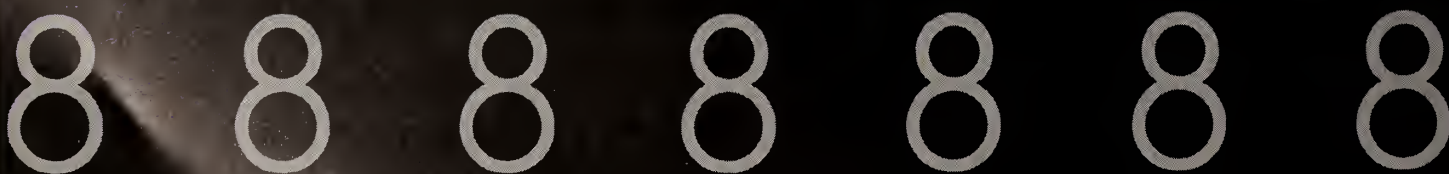

His smiling face can always be seen in the halls of Longmeadow High School. Since 1960, he has given homespun advice, genuine understanding, and a friendly helping hand to just about everyone at the high school. For his hard work, willingness to be of service, and unusual sensitivity, we dedicate the 1980 Masack-sic to Mr. Archie Benson.

Having spent 20 years at Longmeadow High, Archie has decided to retire this June. However, Archie has many exciting plans for the future. They include wood-working and making nick-nacks for his home. He also plans to do plenty of fishing with his wife, Laura. Archie has two daughters; one is married and has two children of her own. Another good reason for retiring: more time to spend with his grandchildren. Having played drums in bands and in school activities, Arch has thoughts of retiring to a band. As he said, "You have to stay awake to make your dreams come true."

Being a senior at L.H.S. means different things to different people. But most seniors would agree that their last year in high school is a time to learn and grow, a time to test their newly found wings, and to look back fondly at their achievements made during high school. A senior collects many memories throughout the year: the Daisy-Weeds game, the class play, the prom and banquet, and finally, the long awaited graduation day. Each senior finds that the circles he has encountered in his earlier years expand as he gains more freedom, more responsibilities, more friends. The common belief that senior year is a time to relax is soon proved only a myth. Hectic plans for the future must be made and college applications must be filled out. The senior realizes that he must "get his act together" despite the uncertainty in his life. By June, the reality becomes apparent; the seniors know that this unforgettable stage in their lives is complete. Thus, the ever growing circle ends; or does it just begin?

As tradition goes, seniors work very hard during their first semester to earn a very relaxed second half of the year. The tenseness and competition of college motivates seniors to work towards good grades in their first semester. In contrast, second half means appreciating time with friends at the expense of academic activities.

During first semester, along with completed homework assignments, seniors fill their time with the extra-curricular activities that colleges look for. They also prepare for college by taking the unbearable SAT's and achievements. But the worst times are days like Nov. 1, Jan. 15, and Feb. 1, when applications are due. Everybody knows the points of writing essays, memorizing social security numbers, visiting guidance, and securing teacher recommendations.

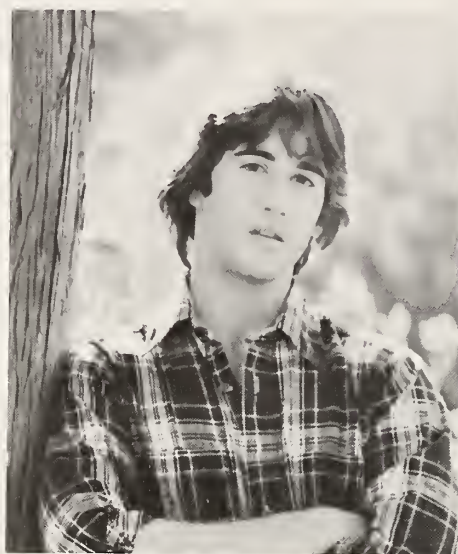

But second semester brings the days for which seniors endure high school. Reports that used to take a week are completed in a night. And the beach trips and parties multiply as seniors celebrate the coming of graduation.

Of course, the fear of rejection hangs in the air until April, when colleges mail their decisions. But after a while even that ends as "senioritis" overwhelms the class.

The senior class council was a major part of senior year for the Class of 1980. The purpose of the senior class council was to bring the seniors closer together during their last year of high school. Attended on a voluntary basis, the meetings were led by President Debbie Schupack and advisors Susan Broderick and Peter Vangness. During the meetings, students discussed upcoming events like fund-raising and school-oriented projects. This planning yielded events like rent-a-senior day on November 30. The year truly began with a successful homecoming weekend during which the class sponsored the homecoming dance, won the spirit links contest, and played the Daisy-Weeds game. The most important projects were the banquet and the prom preparation. These affairs occurred prior to graduation, scheduled for June 8, 1980, when all said good-bye to the Class of 1980.

SENIOR CLASS COUNCIL

1 President, Debbie Schupack. 2. Executive Vice-President, Karen Simmons. 3 Committee Vice-President, Peggy Creed. 4 Secretary, Carolyn Connell. 5 Treasurer, Becky Woods.

Keeping with tradition, the senior girls played in the Daisy-Weeds football game during Homecoming weekend. The Weeds made history as they "plucked" the Daisies by a score of 14-8. Al Burton and Richard Wood offered their coaching skills to the Weeds, and Mike Shoen and David White instructed the Daisies. Peter Loizzo, Kevin Quinn, and Jim Wrona assisted as referees. Spirits were high for the game, which helped to unite the senior class. Almost all of the girls signed up to play, and many senior boys offered their support by cheering. Each team held practices and got team shirts, which they wore to school Friday before the game and at the game itself. While the cheerleaders amused the spectators, Martha Tripp scored with a 50 yd. drive for the Weeds team. Ellen Ehrenberg made the conversion and scored again later in the game to give the Weeds a 14 pt. advantage. After Lauren Elliot's touchdown in the fourth quarter for the Daisies, the atmosphere became tense. But the Weeds' defense was able to stop quarterback Gina Ferazzi's strong offense and broke the Daisies' previous winning streak.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

The senior class would like to give special thanks to our advisors, Ms. Sue Broderick and Mr. Peter Vangness. Their dedication and devotion to the class made senior activities exciting and productive. But let's give them the opportunity in their own words to explain what this year has meant to them.

"I keep telling myself, 'In six months you'll laugh about all this.' But right now? Two days before Homecoming, Steve and David tell me, 'Of course we'll finish it!' Homecoming dance: the band arrives when it's supposed to begin playing. The semi-formal: my car breaks down on the way, with four chaperones in it. In mid-February, the lacrosse team vanishes from the play. In June, the prom, banquet, leadership conferences and graduation rehearsals occur in one week - the week I'm trying to finish a year's work with junior classes. HELP! Some things I already laugh about: Debbie, who gets dismissed more than any other senior except Beth; Karen, who threatens anxiety attacks opening night; Peter, knocking over all the glasses on the faculty table; me, screaming, 'How did you five con me into doing this?' Never mind - it's been frustrating, crazy, hilarious, and - six months from now enjoyable."

Sue Broderick

"The class of 1980 has given me a long train of memories not soon to be forgotten. The first dance - the semi-formal in June - the Zucker financial plan - the best picnic - another semi-formal - floats and more dances - problems ironed out - bake sales - Wednesday nights - maturing and learning about each other - three co-advisors in four years (was it something I said?) - hard work and long hours given by concerned students - teamwork - senior year!!! - the past four years that seem to have passed so quickly. I remain in your debt, class of 1980, for adding to my life in such a special and profound way."

The underclassmen occupy a large part of the LHS circle. Striving to complete each successive turn of his own cycle, each graduate lives his underclassmen years with the hope of tying all loose ends together to form a perfect circle. As a freshman, each student begins one of the most challenging adventure of his life. The freshman is confronted with new privileges and new rules and often becomes oriented with his new surroundings and responsibilities. By the end of the year he is fairly familiar with the school and has a new outlook on the rest of his high school years. When the student returns as a sophomore, he is more sure of himself and of his expectations. The work load becomes more strenuous, however, more opportunities are available to him: clubs, sports, and advanced courses. Half of the circle is complete by the end of the sophomore year, and the on coming junior begins to think about his future. The junior year is the toughest academically, as the student finds himself homework bound most of the time. But the opportunities still expand in both academic and extra-curricular areas. The junior becomes a vital asset to the entire school, readying himself for the leadership he will assume during his senior year. By the end of the year, each junior knows that as the high school circle comes closer to completion, he must take definite steps in preparing for his post-graduate years.

Becoming a junior in high school is a major event for a student; the class of 1981 gained its new status with great pride. Looking forward to the excitement of social life and the making of meaningful friendships, the Junior Class started the year on a positive note.

Led by President Tom Creed, with help from Vice President Kevin Stenstrom, Treasure Pat Ratkowski, and Secretary Nancy Fuller, the Class Council worked well together, and has successfully sponsored many activities creating total school spirit and involving the community in L.H.S. life. The junior year is the time when a class begins to work toward its final goals; as it stands now, the class of 1981 can anticipate an excellent Senior year!

1. Tom Creed, President. 2. Kevin Stenstrom, Vice-President. 3. Nancy Fuller, Secretary. 4. Patrick Ratkowski, Treasurer. 5. Miss Sue Feeney, Advisor. 6. Mr. Vito Riccio, Advisor. 7. Junior Class Council.

SOPHOMORES 1982

The four years a student spends in the high school are both challenging and difficult. However, if each class becomes unified and works together, their goals will be met.

The sophomore year tends to be a less exciting one as the newness of being a freshman has worn off, and the privileges and prestige of upperclassmen are just out of reach.

However, the sophomore class worked diligently under the leadership of President, Goelen Harrington, Vice President, Beth Ditomassi, Treasure, Bronwyn O'Reilly, and Secretary, Anne McTaggart. Their advisors, Mrs. Claire Satta and Mr. John Quinn, helped and guided them to gain many rewards: they sponsored a profitable raffle in the second quarter; their float took first prize in the Homecoming competition; and they held several school dances. They faced the sophomore year with much success and are looking forward to becoming upperclassmen.

1. Goelen Harrington, President. 2. Beth Ditomassi, Vice President. 3. Anne McTaggart, Secretary. 4. Bronwyn O'Reilly, Treasure. 5. Mrs. Claire Satta, Advisor. 6. Mr. John Quinn, Advisor.

The freshman class council has had a very productive year. With their class advisors Mr. Troy and Mrs. Moore, the freshman class has earned money for their treasury and had fun at the same time. Being at the beginning of the high school circle and not being overwhelmed by the three years of work still left to accomplish is commendable, and the freshman class council has gotten a great start.

Within the tightly knit circle of Longmeadow High School, the faculty plays an important role. through the years they help students to learn many important lessons in a subject concerning everyone: life. Like the symbolic Olympic circles, the people in the faculty — the administrators, the teachers, the guidance staff, the secretaries, and the service crew — all work together to keep L.H.S. running smoothly.

The teachers at L.H.S. are a friendly, caring group who give students the opportunity to learn from them, sharing what they have learned from their teachers. Whether it be English, history, or Latin, each teacher gives a part of himself to make the student's life circle more complete.

The guidance staff helps all students at L.H.S. in many ways. By following each person's school record, the guidance staff knows how to help and prepare each student for the world that awaits him upon graduation.

The many secretaries at Longmeadow High, always exceedingly busy, give the school a more complete look. The daily bulletins are read to us by the office secretaries; their hard work is ever-present.

The service crew keeps L.H.S. a comfortable, happy, healthy place to learn. They do a variety of jobs, ranging from feeding everyone to cleaning classrooms to fixing the intricate works of the heating system.

The administration oversees the whole process of the school. They are involved with the lives of students and faculty alike, and tie together all of the loose ends to make a perfectly compatible circle out of many extraneous parts.

Through the faculty and their constant support, the High school functions as a viable whole.

As the Longmeadow School System rolls into a new decade, we are fortunate to have at the helm a new Superintendent, Dr. Robert McKanna.

Dr. McKanna has already proved to be an asset to the school system. In the first place he is visible: he visits the schools, he shares our lunch, he attends our activities. Also, he keeps us informed about School Committee actions by sending monthly newsletters to each school. Furthermore, Dr. McKanna has instituted a process of educational evaluation that should make Longmeadow the best school system in the East.

A young family man, Dr. McKanna will have much to offer the town in years to come. At his first meeting with the faculty and staff, he impressed the teachers as a man of intelligence, charm, and wit.

Dr. McKanna has many ideas concerning the school system, many of which we will see in the near future. Truly, Dr. McKanna is a welcome addition to the Longmeadow School system.

Ms. Kathy Queeney, the new special education teacher in the service department, is a fine addition to Longmeadow High. Since her arrival last year, she has spent time and effort assisting special programs throughout the town, helping in such activities as working with handicapped children and supervising Park Department projects, all of which were extremely beneficial to the community. Spending her time tutoring remedial students, this energetic twenty five year old woman is welcomed by her pupils who think of her as "fun." This fall and winter, Ms. Queeney took over the job of Girls' Cheerleading coach, and she did it with a "bang!" With special squads for the fall and winter seasons, the cheerleaders in no way resemble anything we have had in the past. Not only are the fall and winter squads different, the entire group has taken on a new look, reflecting both the vivacity of Ms. Queeney and the long after-school hours of supervised practice. Longmeadow High is honored to include Ms. Queeney on its staff.

Mrs. Janice Pontacaloni is one of the newer English teachers at L.H.S. Married last year, she received her B.S. degree from Western Connecticut Community College. Now 26, Mrs. Pontacaloni is studying for her Master's Degree at Trinity College. Mrs. Pontacaloni believes in hard work and tries to motivate her students to achieve goals and gain serious study habits. She enjoys cross-country skiing, coin collecting, and writing. In addition, she enjoys Drama and is co-advisor of the Drama Club. Mrs. Pontacaloni thoroughly enjoys teaching and looks forward to continued teaching at L.H.S.

Raymond Lopes, a new teacher in the science department, teaches Biology and I.M.E. After graduating from Western New England College, Mr. Lopes substituted at both L.H.S. and Ludlow High. When asked to comment about L.H.S. he said, "I love it!" Mr. Lopes is involved with the TAP Program this year and he feels that the program is a good way to meet people. He has found it productive for the students, enabling them to better understand the school, yet he also feels that it has helped him to get acquainted with L.H.S. Mr. Lopes has noticed that the school is missing a Science Club, and he is thinking of possibly coordinating one next year if he finds interest. Mr. Lopes and his talents are assets to Longmeadow High School.

David Title is the history replacement for Mrs. Ellis this year. Mr. Title is a recent graduate of Dartmouth College and is planning a long career in teaching. A native of West Hartford, Mr. Title worked in radio as a disc jockey and enjoys working in that field. His main reasons for teaching are that he likes working with young people and enjoys seeing them learn. Mr. Title also wants to coach a sport, since he is already a basketball official. In addition to basketball, Mr. Title enjoys cross-country, travel and all sports.

He hopes to stay at L.H.S. and continue teaching, perhaps branching out into administration. When asked to comment about L.H.S., Mr. Title thought that his teaching "has been a positive experience," because L.H.S. has a "good faculty and supportive administration." For Mr. Title, L.H.S. is "a great place to teach."

Mr. Daniels returned to L.H.S. this year to replace Mr. Ness as the head of the Math Department. Mr. Daniels taught at L.H.S. from 1964 to 1970, then taught in Hawaii for one year. In 1971, he moved back to Longmeadow and headed the Math Department at Glenbrook. He taught there until last year, then returned to L.H.S. When asked about his teaching motivation, Mr. Daniels replied that he likes kids and finds it easy to relate to them. Also, he stated that an interest in Math influenced his choice of a profession. During the summer, Mr. Daniels is a tennis pro in Vermont. He and his son Matt enjoy tennis and play in father-and-son tournaments. Matt is a freshman and Mr. Daniels' daughter Jennifer is in seventh grade.

Each year, new teachers come to L.H.S. This year L.H.S. welcomes Mrs. Mary Ann Sedran. A graduate of Westfield State College with a B.A. in Mathematics, Mrs. Sedran has been teaching for eight years. Her career began in 1971 at Minnechaug High School, leaving one year later to teach at Hall High in Connecticut. In 1975, Mrs. Sedran returned to college, receiving her Masters Degree at Southern Connecticut State College. She then taught Calculus at the University of Hartford until 1979. Mrs. Sedran's hobbies center on the outdoors. She enjoys gardening and biking, swimming, and photography. Indoors, Mrs. Sedran is greatly interested in Computer Science. Although unsure of her future plans, she is enjoying her present life, and plans to remain at Longmeadow High School.

After his one-year sabbatical, Mr. Morin has returned to L.H.S., yet his is not the same man that he was before he left. He spent the year working towards his Masters Degree in Education, concentrating on Spanish. Last Spring, Mr. Morin did his studying in Seville, Spain at American College. Mr. Morin did not travel alone; he brought his daughter and wife along to see the beautiful sights of Spain. Mr. Morin stated that although he experienced a great degree of culture shock, he loves Spain a great deal and said that he was "definitely going back." Mr. Morin returned to L.H.S. as a Spanish teacher rather than a French teacher and has high hopes for his future at Longmeadow High School.

Sports at L.H.S. forms an integral link with academics and other activities of our high school years. It serves several purposes: each proves significant to the entire high school community. Aside from the obvious benefits of promoting physical fitness and teaching team work, the sports circle creates new friendships and school spirit. Because of its esteemed tradition, many students try out for team sports each season. For those chosen, the start of a long, demanding, but rewarding season has begun. Rigorous practices and strict discipline bring the team-mates closer together, with each athlete respecting his fellow team member. Each team grows uniquely, with special pride, enthusiasm, and spirit. The whole purpose of the sport becomes apparent on each one's face as he celebrates a victory or mourns a defeat. But whether it be victory or defeat, each member has grown throughout the season and a true showing of sportsmanship is apparent. Along with the athlete's personal activities, the teams also succeed in bringing the school closer together, as groups of students, faculty, and family gather at all sporting events, cheering for their teams. Sports plays a significant part in the L.H.S. activities for both the determined players and for the dedicated supporters.

The LHS football team, captained by John Fletcher, Mike Shoen and Richard Wood, enjoyed an outstanding season finishing with its best team record in ten years. This was the first time the team ever recorded a first place in league standings. Coach Deary attributed the team's success to their ability to work together which helped standouts Richard Wood, John Fletcher, Mike Shoen, Dave White, Jim Wrona and Peter Loizzo. Senior Richard Wood rushed for 854 yards and scored 13 touchdowns, a record which helped him become the leader in Coach Deary's Fribble Club. Juniors Ted Landis and Eugene Johnson also had excellent seasons with quarterback Landis rushing for 453 yards and scoring 3 touchdowns, while Johnson had 321 yards rushing and 1 touchdown. When speaking of the team's outstanding records, one must not forget sophomore kicker Greg Radner. Greg broke the Western Mass. record with 8 completed field goals, his longest being 37 yards. This year the team also had their own voting: Most Valuable Player was awarded to both Richard Wood and Mike Shoen; and Unsung hero to John Fletcher. Coach Deary, obviously very proud of his team, said, "It was one of the most enjoyable years, not only the winning but working with a great bunch of kids." The 1979 Longmeadow High Football team will have much to look back on in years to come; regrets, there will be none.

Led by Head Coach Ron Morissette and Assistant Coach Mitch Mizewski, this year's varsity soccer team was one of the strongest L.H.S. has ever seen, starting off the season with an awesome 5-0 record. The captains were seniors David Solomon, John Deliso, Andy Maslow, and Alan Chabot. Of the teams in Pioneer Valley, their toughest competition came from Westside, Chicopee and Cathedral. The defense consisted of seniors David Webler, Tom Weston, and David Fisk anchored by sweeperback Andy Maslow, who was "Soccer Player of the Week," as well as David Solomon, who was one of the best goalies in Western Mass. On offense, Columbian

A.F.S. student Herman Chapaval quickly learned the American way of soccer. Also on offense were forward Doug Shapiro, junior Mark Hurwitz and surprise star, hustling Billy Rowe, who was also "Soccer Player of the Week." Halfback positions were covered by junior Terry Ditmar and senior captain Alan Chabot. John Deliso was this year's high scorer. Some promising juniors were Marc Cohen, Peter Heger, and back-up goal tender Billy Sheans. One of the highlights of this season was the Lancer triumph over arch rival Minnechaug, with an impressive 3-2 victory. The 1979 Boys Soccer team should be congratulated on a job well done.

1. Columbian exchange student Herman Chapaval watches his teammates. 2. Senior David Fisk dribbles the ball away from the Lancer goal as captain Andy Maslow follows close behind. 3. Senior Billy Rowe hustles the ball past his opponent. 4. David Sherman skillfully maneuvers the ball away from his opponent. 5. Senior Doug Shapiro heads the ball while blocking a member of the other team. 6. Seniors Tom Weston, Alan Chabot and goalie David Soloman combine efforts to prevent their opponents from scoring. 7. Senior David Webler skillfully dribbles the ball down the field. 8. Junior Scott Hanson shows his stuff! 9. Terry Ditmar hustles down the field with speed and style. 10. Alan Chabot, one of the four captains, looks for a free teammate to pass the ball to.

The Girls' Soccer team completed its third successful season this year. They started off the season with two shut-outs against Westfield and Commerce and continued to maintain this pace with skill and effort throughout the season. Versatile Kathy Jenkins was a great asset to the team, followed by Joan Dooley and Nancy Okun. The aggressiveness of the halfbacks, Francois LaPierre, Karen Josephson, Dede McGuinness, Karen Hochstadt, and Leslie Chabot along with defensive captain Sue Reed, Debbie Schupack, Lauren Cartwright and Aileen Secondo led the girls to a 7-10-1 final record. The goalie position was split between Gretchen Havens and Sarah Riley.

The final game, played against Commerce, resulted in a 13-0 shut out. The forward line scored numerous times, and the halfbacks also had their chance to score.

Mr. Al Jangl, as coach, worked the girls continuously throughout the season and helped to produce a more organized and skillful varsity team.

1. "Al Babes" preparing to throw Woodstock in as a "sub". 2. Sophomore Wendy Hochberg angles herself for the head ball. 3. Senior Dede McGuiness brings the ball upfield. 4. Junior Kathy Jenkins blocks her opponent from reaching the ball. 5. Captain Sue Reed lines herself up to pass the ball to the forward line. 6. Sophomore Karen Josephson stays on top of the ball. 7. Senior Francois La Pierre winds up for a boot towards the net. 8. Junior Nancy Okun rushes towards the ball to ward off the opponent with her disco moves. 9. Row 1: K. Josephson, S. Muller, N. Okun, Captain S. Reed, S. Gerki, F. LaPierre, G. Havens, Row 2: S. Levine, W. Hochberg, A. Secondo, L. Chabot, D. McGuiness, L. Cartwright, Captain D. Schupack, K. Jenkins, J. Dooley, K. Hochstadt, S. Riley, Coach Al Jangl. 10. Senior Gretchen Havens prepares to give the ball a "hip check". 11. Senior Joan Dooley, Lauren Cartwright, and Junior Nancy Okun cuddle up at half time.

After only two year in the Fay Division, the Lancer Icemen surged to the top reaching the level of state competition. Sporting a record of 21-4-1, the 1979-1980 LHS Hockey team was the best ever.

Ably coached by Ray Suzor and led by Tri-captains Steve Burnett, Bill Cunningham and Rick Sauve, the team used their great depth and talent to capture the Western Mass. and Central Mass. titles. Then it was on to Boston Garden for the State Championship - quite a fitting place to end such an exciting season. Even a "flucky" goal in overtime did not diminish the stature of our skaters. They were great!

This remarkable team had an immense amount of talent. The line of Steve Burnett, David Thor and Greg Fisk was the highest scoring line in Western Mass. Goalie Bill Cunningham was outstanding throughout the year with a league leading average. Scott Buffum was another top scorer and Rick Sauve was great at defense. Every player, however, added to the team and helped make it what it was.

As the season and this exciting team progressed, everyone was talking hockey. this was the first team to ever make it past the Western Mass. finals, and it took Longmeadow an extra game to do it. Their first game against Pittsfield was protested by Pittsfield and had to be replayed. But the Icemen met the challenge, beat Pittsfield, beat the Central Mass. challenger, and went on to Boston Garden to face Barnstable. We lost the game but we won the fame.

Once again, Longmeadow High School's Field Hockey team showed great style, finesse, and athletic ability (along with pretty good legs), this year. They also had a great deal of fun while holding up under pretty tough competition, ending with a very respectable and slightly irregular record of 4-3-6.

The girls' determination was kept alive with constant prodding and fine coaching from Head Coach Cathy McInnis, Asst. Coach Mary Jo Quigley, and J.V. Coach Paula Ingalls. While varsity was working on new strategies, the J.V. team was heading for a fine season with only one loss to South Hadley. Coach Ingalls, Captains Jena Hjelm and Krisi Kinsley, and all the girls should be commended.

The varsity team was not without talent as most of the girls were seniors, completing their fourth year of hockey under Miss McInnis. Captains Gina Ferazzi and Becca Jones showed great leadership and were vital parts in the Lancerettes scoring power. Gina went on to become a member of the Western Mass. team. Other forward line members were Kerry LeDuc, Peggy Creed, Monique Beauchamp, Joyce Leavitt, and Junior Dara Murphy. The success of the team would not have been possible without the defensive squad. Cheryl Petrucci, P.J. Venti, Carolyn Connell, Lauren Elliott, and Ellen Abdow, together with Juniors Dierdra O'Reilly and Julie Blanchard, with help from sophomores Soosi Becker, Krista Conley and goalies Bonnie Rubin and Donna Golaski made up this hard playing team. The team experienced a great season and things look good next year with experienced players returning.

The boy's swimming team of 1980, coached by Mark Michelson, experienced a rewarding season. In its two meets against arch rival, Cathedral, the team lost once by two points, but with super determination they defeated Cathedral by twenty points the second time. Tri-captains, Scott Betsher, Alan Greenspan, and Jim Smith all seniors, led the team to victory. Scott is an all around swimmer who specializes in backstroke and the 200 individual medley. Alan swims the 50 freestyle and 100 freestyle, and the 200 medley relay and the 400 yard freestyle medley. Jim participates in the 200 yard, 100 yard, and 400 yard free style relays. Chris Fraser, a promising junior, swims the breaststroke and 200 yard individual medley, while sophomore

Todd Hartigan supported the team with his breaststroke and butterfly. Captain Alan Greenspan said, "We work our hardest against any team. We have a lot of dedicated swimmers who are willing to make sacrifices in order to achieve our goals." The team was subjected to an intense training program that began at 2:30 and ended at 5:45 each day. The training curriculum consisted of a weight program that was devised by Coach Michelson. One of the proudest moments for the team was defeating all other teams in Western Mass during the Christmas relays. Their hard work and training program seemed to pay off in the long run for the Lancers as they came in first in Western Mass and fourth in the state meet. While losing many valuable seniors the swim team looks toward another good season with hard work and dedication.

1. Sophomore John Oliveri, a mighty contender in the butterfly, strives for another victory. 2. Peter Sudnick, another strong finisher for Longmeadow. 3. Captain Scott Betsher shows his winning backstroke form. 4. "Aerial" LaMontagne was a great asset to the team with his outstanding diving form. 5. Greg Lowell exhibits power and determination in his freestyle event. 6. Boys Swim Team: 1 to r, Row 1: J. Griffin, J. Walsh, C. Lyons, L. Hirsh, D. Gagnon, A. Greenspan, S. Betsher, J. Smith, G. swimming . . .

The Girls' Swim team swam a super season. The team won 10 meets, while losing only 3. Their toughest competition came from Northampton and Cathedral. Although Longmeadow shared the Division I league title with their rival Cathedral, the Lancers came back at Western Mass. to drown the Panthers, taking second place.

Coached by Judi Gregory and Linda Segur, the team worked out daily on the universal and in the pool. Captains Beth Crosby and Lisa Crosby displayed unbeatable team spirit. Sophomore Vicky Kotarski placed high in I.M. and breaststroke, while Joyce Bott was a standout in the 50 and 100 fe freestyle events. Each earned a place on the All-Western-Mass squad. The team was a winning one because of its depth. Although there were many stars, meets could no have been won without the help of each team member. Lisa Crosby and Becky Woods literally flew in the butterfly, while Beth Crosby and Holly Dolan revolutionized the backstroke. Breaststrokers Vicky and the Griffin sisters added great strength to the squad, while Karen Fraser and Tracy Rehbian dominated the 500 freestyle. Seniors Martha Tripp and Lynn Williams with sophomore Barbie Brennen were super sprinters.

Experience meant excellence for our divers! Senior Brenda Doherty, juniors Stacy Merello and Leslie Picard, along with sophomore Julie Wilkinson. Certainly none of the swimmers will forget this year and its memories: Senior penalties, (Mindy, Robin, and Vicky don't catch a chill), diving off the chair, "deja vu" and of course, LA, LA, LA, LA, . . . !!

1. "Tripper" takes a break. 2. Senior Captain Beth Crosby starts a sprint during warm-up. 3. Distance freestyler Tracy Rehben gasps for air. 4. You're pretty strange looking Mr. Photographer! 5. The divers-Julie, Leslie, and Brenda, smile for the camera. 6. Junior Joyce Bott sprints towards the finish. 7. Stacy Merello tucks for an inward one and a half. 8. wrestling . . .

The Wrestling Team had a very trying season, but through it, gained much experience and talent. Led by Coach Norm Harris, Assistant Coach David Williams, and Captain David Appleman, the boys trained through hard practices consisting of scrimmaging, callisthenics, weight lifting, and running. Their fair record showed that this year was a building year for the Wrestling Team. This is not to say that there were not many talented team members. Seniors David Appleman, Keith Riordan, and Lee Jacobson, junior Matt Campbell and sophomores Matt Shoen and Billy Riordan all did well for the team effort.

The Rifle Team consists of seven members who have a great interest and talent for target shooting. In a match, each competitor must shoot in a prone and standing position. He must race against time and with as much accuracy as possible, shoot at the different targets. Most of the competition is against private schools, many from Connecticut. Our team was able to hold their own with a respectable record of 3-4. While having no captains, the team was led through three days of practice a week at the Center School annex by Coach Ray Villeneuve. Losing two valuable seniors will make a dent in the small team membership, but the future looks good with the returning talent.

Cross-country experienced a rebuilding year with the team striving to maintain last year's outstanding record. The team consisted of thirty nine runners and contained a successful girls team as well. Cross country is different from most other sports in that it requires more self-discipline and individual persistence. Each runner must have the will to improve his own time and much of his leisure time is spent running. This year's top runner, Tim Sterritt, said, "Runners in the past four years have developed a more serious attitude in training and in racing than in previous years." Tim is an example of a devoted runner. Tim has been a member of the cross country team for four years and has been a strong participant throughout.

Other talented runners include Seniors Nate Kerlinsky, Laura Guild, Lori Katsounakis, Brett Halliday, and Sophomore Allison Hoar. During the Valley Wheel Meet the junior varsity team did exceptionally well. The Lancers toughest competition were believed to be Southwick, Amherst, and Minnechaug. Mr. Joseph Winseck coached the team again and is known for his excellent coaching skills and words of advice prior to races.

Although the Lancers will suffer the loss of their top three runners next year, such promising underclassmen as Jeff Grinspoon, Paul Welch and Joe Flannagan will be returning. The team had its share of difficulties with the injuries of Tim Sterritt and Jeff Grinspoon. Finishing the season with a 3-4 record, the team does not feel they were as successful as they had hoped. Individually however they improved greatly and should feel like winners.

1. Eager to start the race, The Lancers take their positions. 2. Closing his eyes, Brett Halliday concentrates on what he is doing. 3. After completing the race, a look of relief is shown on Lauren L'Eperance's face. 4. Nathan Kerlinsky pushes to go on. 5. Determination is shown on captain Tim Sterritt's face. 6. Running side by side Lancers pick up their stride. 7. Checking her card, Martha Guild finishes a race. 9. Keeping in stride, Laura Guild concentrates on her position.

Although the lack of snow kept many people home this winter, nothing stopped the LHS varsity basketball team from enjoying another super season. Coached by Ron Morrisette and Neil Kelly, the team worked overtime to capture a successful season. Tri-captains Bill Sherman, Greg Boudreaux, and Alan Burton led the team and fans to great emotional heights and helped gain the phenomenal scores at each game.

The starting line consisted of Bill Sherman, forward, Greg Boudreaux, guard, Mark Hurwitz also a guard, Alan Burton, center, and Kevin Boudreaux, the swing man, taking the position of either guard or forward. The second line positions were held by Eric Siegel, David Webler, Dean Appleman, Billy Rowe, Brian Fogarty, Bruce Kipperman, and John Carey.

High scorer of the year was the unbeatable Bill Sherman, who also surfaced as one of the top scorers in Western Mass. Although seven of the twelve men will be leaving the team, the situation is not too depressing: the varsity basketball team for next year will still be tops with five returning juniors.

According to coach Ron Morrisette, "This year's team was the finest group of individuals I've ever worked with. I've never had more enjoyment and less pressure from any other team I have ever coached."

In the past, cheerleading has been regarded as merely a club. Recently, however the cheerleaders have tried very hard to make cheerleading recognizable as a sport. The difficult coordination involved, the strategic mounts and jumps, the creative dance routines choreographed to the band's music - all involve much skill and gymnastic ability.

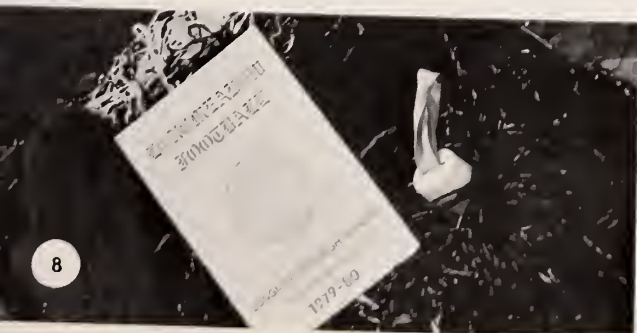

Cheerleading involves two separate seasons: one for football, and one for basketball. Each involves separate tryouts. The girls practice every day from 2:45-3:30 so that they can promote enthusiasm at games, with new cheers, minicheers, and sideline cheers. Often films are taken of the girls cheering at games, so that they are able to see exactly how they appear before the spectators.

Captain Laura Poppo and co-captain Becca Roth lead the squad through the cheers and help to form a talented and skilled team. The new coach, Ms. Queeney, has added considerable enthusiasm and many ideas to the squad. Her dedication, good judgement, and profitable suggestions are greatly appreciated.

To arouse their spirits before games, the cheerleaders perform their favorite pastime rituals. The habitual pre-game luncheons, the rounds around town, (involving chinese fire drills and loud cheering), and the decorating of the bleachers upon arrival at the field; all contribute to their spirit before the games.

1. Lancerettes cheer on our basketball team. 2. "SP-IR-IT!! We've got the spirit!" 3. The girls get a rise from the crowd. 4. Varsity Cheerleading-Row 1: B. Roth. Row 2: L. Plotkin, L. Poppo, S. basketball . . .

The Girl's Varsity Basketball team, a closely knit group led by coach Cathy McInnis, succeeded in rebuilding a strong team after losing eight seniors last season. Sporting a record of 5-11-1, captains Gina Ferrazzi and Kathy Padwater guided the girls through a trying season which included games against the three year undefeated Amhersts team as well as the second place South Hadley team. Senior Gina Ferrazzi led the team offensively as the highest scorer while junior Monique Lucier, a 5'10" forward, was the team's best defensive player. Sam Malloy proved to be one of the greatest assets to the team and grew stronger as the season progressed, averaging six to ten points per game. Juniors Jenny Donner and Dierdre O'Reilly aided the scoring power for the Lady Lancers as guards, and Kathy Padwater and Betsy Regan, guards, kept their opponents' scoring to a minimum. Junior Lisa Crosby was also a great asset to the team, playing center. Sophomore Kate Baldwin shows great potential for the future for she grew in ability and determination as the season progressed.

Off court the team had a number of fun experiences all of which helped to build them into a true team. These included Sunday morning brunches, before game munch outs at the O'Reilly's, fire extinguisher ambushes in the locker room, Friday nights at the Donner's, and the traditional end of the season banquet. The girls enjoyed an exciting season and were a super example of the quality of determination at Longmeadow High School.

1. Gina Ferazzi leads her team down the court. 2. Jenny Donner reaches for the ball before it goes out of bounds. 3. Jenny sets up to shoot. 4. gymnastics . . .

Usually in a varsity sport, the members consist mostly of upperclassmen. However, the Boys' Gymnastics team changed that tradition this year as freshman Davis Paulides, performed outstandingly well throughout the season.

This is not to say that there were not other very talented competitors on the team. Coach John Kober and Assistant Coach Bart Dunlevy worked hard with the team to help them with new routines and difficult moves. When asked about the team, Coach Kober felt it was an extremely strong team "with good guys to work with."

Captain David Sherman did an excellent job this year leading the team as well as performing in meets. His major events were the high bar, parallel bars, and the rings. Aiding David was Assistant Captain Matt Ringey whose strengths included the rings, floor ex, and vaulting. Other talented contenders included junior Doug Cowles on floor and pommel horse, junior Kevin Stenstrom on pommel horse and Davis Paulides who was an all-around gymnast faring very well this season.

The league record for the season stands at the respectable 2-4-1 and an overall record of 3-4-1. Their one tie was quite remarkable as a tie in gymnastics is very rare. LHS was represented at the Western Mass meet and sent Davis on to compete in State competition.

The Longmeadow High School Girls' Gymnastic team coached by Judy Gregory and Assistant Coach Bart Dunlevy, a former Lancer gymnast, had an outstanding season this year. Their overall record was nine wins (including the first Lancer victory over the West Springfield girls' gymnastic team), and only one loss. The season was highlighted when the Longmeadow girls scored their highest score of 112 in a victory over Cathedral. Another high point of the season occurred when Captain Sandy Bradford broke both the balance beam and vaulting records, which now stand at 8.25 and 8.95 respectively, along with tying the record for the Western Massachusetts all-around score. The team's other captain, Carol Tomko, also competed in the all-around spot, with her specialty on floor exercise. Next year the team will lose senior Jean Franson, but both captains, as well as Heather Wason on bars and vaulting, Sandy Muller on beam, vaulting, and floor, Karen Richfield on floor and beam, and Beth Wheeler as an all-around, will be back to carry on. Also returning will be Beth Czelusniak, Sharon Stockwell, Amy Terrel, Beth Ehrenberg, Sharon Sabin and Ruth Mannix. Despite the unfortunate injuries of Beth Ehrenberg and Sandy Muller, who both tore ligaments in their ankles, and freshman Beth Czelusnizk, who chipped her elbow, the girls had an excellent season, placing third in the Western Mass meet and thus qualifying for the state meet. Also, Sandy Bradford, Carol Tomko, Karen Richfield, Heather Wason and Beth Wheeler qualified to compete in the state individuals' meet, in which Sandy placed number one in the floor exercise.

1. Junior Ruth Mannix springs over the horse. 2. Junior Captain Sandy Bradford shows her strength and skill as she holds a breathtaking handstand on the balance beam. 3. Sophomore Amy Terrel gracefully poses on the beam. 4. Heather Wason preforms floor exercise. 5. Sophomore Beth Ehrenberg finishes her vault. 6. Junior Captain Carol Tomko concentrates on her difficult and impressive beam routine. 7. Sharon Stockwell prepares to do a cartwheel on the beam. 8. (sitting, from left to right) J. Franson, R. Junior Karen Richfeild, giving her specialty, the balance beam, a rest, works the uneven bars. 9. Senior Jean Franson concentrates on the beam.

Despite the lack of snow, the Lancer ski team this year had an outstanding season. Coached by Michael McCarthy, the team worked hard and was rewarded with many successes. The boys' team, led by senior Tri-Captains Tom Ely, Peter Gill, and Alan Chabot, were defeated only once all season, while the girls' team was undefeated. Both teams placed number one in Western Mass.

In addition to the captains, the girls' team was anchored by seniors Debbie Schupack and Sue Leavitt, as well as sophomores Polly Lucier and Leslie Chabot. Ellen Sham-mash and Michelle Wernick, who both placed in the top five in most of their weekly races, placed second and third in the league, respectively. Joyce Leavitt and Polly Lucier also placed in the top ten. Freshman Naomi Schupack showed a great deal of skill and promises to be a leading competitor next season. Freshmen Missy Freidman and Robin Wilks, and sophomore Peggy Woods also will be great assets to next year's team. This year's boys' team had a highly successful season as well. Despite the broken leg of Alan Chabot, which prevented him from competing for most of the season, the boys were the top team in Western Mass. In addition to the captains, the strongest competitors were Tripp Lantz and Chris Burger. Seniors Jeff Landon and Bob Mouchantat were also great assets to the team. Freshmen Peter Leavitt and Rick Mouchantat, along with sophomore Keith Hall, show great promise for next year's team.

The life of a student at LHS extends beyond the world of academics. Students are given the opportunity to get involved in clubs, which fulfill personal circles as well as universal ones. The choices are great, with each activity appealing to its members in different ways. These organizations, advised by interested teachers, help students learn and grow, meet new people, and offer involvement in something worthwhile. There are three literary groups; Outlet, The Jet Jotter, and Masacksic, all adding new dimensions to the high school by providing a concrete source of information and memories. Other activities circle around the fine arts. Students wishing to better their ability to speak a foreign language can pursue this desire through a club. Activities, such as the Debate Team offer challenging and interesting experiences. Through participation in these activities, students and teachers learn to work together in a relaxed atmosphere in which good times, new friendships, and creative growth are inspired.

AFTERHOURS . . .

During the week most of the talk is of school. But, on weekends students have a whole different vocabulary . . .

"O.K. Everyone has to leave. Party's over! Don't just stand in front of the house, GET OUT!!!!"

"I guess we should go. Who's driving? Everybody meet at McDonald's. I have a Big Mac Attack . . . Can I borrow .34¢?"

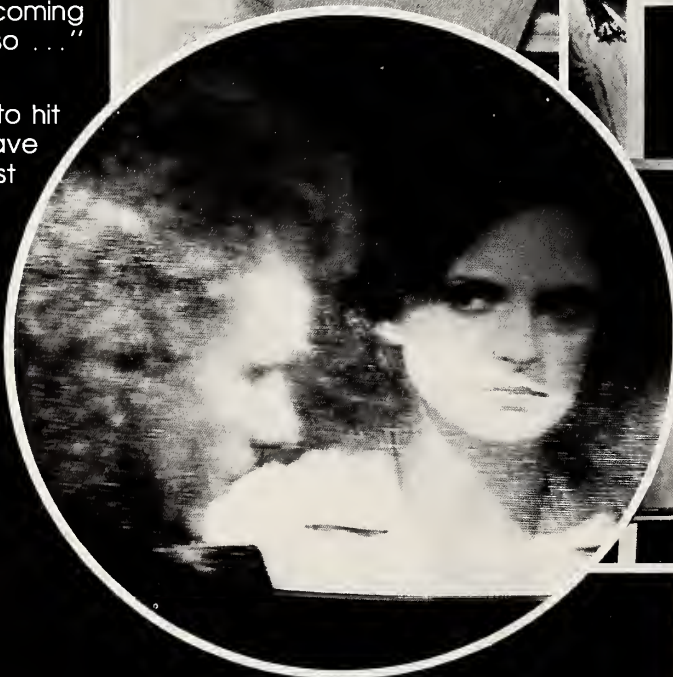

"Did anyone see the soaps yesterday? Listen to this. Leslie is pregnant with Alan's baby. Laura is really hyper because Scottie just got a new secretary. I bet you anything they get together."

"Who else has D Block off?
I got the car today. We can go hit Kimmel's or just drive around and waste gas."

"I can't believe there's no snow. This is totally incredible. I just got new skis and boots with a matching turtleneck and overalls and . . ."

"O.K. I am sick of just driving around. Are you sure that party is closed? We can go to my house but my parents are coming home at 10:00, so . . ."

We have to hit Bob's. They have widewales in just about every color of the rainbow! We can look like florescent bulbs walking down the hall!"

Sing Out Loud, Sing Out Strong

The LHS Chorus, continuing to maintain its great number of participants, has contributed tremendously to the 79-80 LHS activities and entertainment. Girls and boys chorus, offered to those interested in singing but not wishing to audition, were divided into separate choirs. Men's choir participated in the Society for the Encouragement of the Barber Shop Quartet which held its concert at Holyoke High School.

Lyrics, composed of 36 devoted and talented students, was split into three chamber ensembles. Two smaller groups, the Renaissance Group which performed at the Winter Concert, and the Blues Busters, who participated on the Pops Concert, also contributed to successful "Lyrical" year. Among the other moving performances were the Winter/Pops Concert and the American Choral Directors Association Competition.

A most popular sector of the LHS Chorus is Girls' Concert Chorus. This multi-talented group of sixty girls performed beautifully at the Winter Concert, the Pops Concert, and the Spring Concert, held at the high school. In this special chorus the girls practice vocal exercises and sight reading. By the end of the school year, they had learned twenty-five songs and performed very successfully "The Sound of Music."

By the end of the school year, the LHS Chorus had become a cohesive group, working not only as a group of students, but as a group of friends.

We took our show on the road! The Longmeadow High School Instrumental Music Department rolled right along this year — all the way to Canada. This spring during April vacation, the concert band had an exchange concert with Sir Robert Borden High School, located in Ottawa, Canada. Concert Band, conducted by Michael Mucci, involves 55 musicians who practice regularly during the school day.

The orchestra comprises students from all instrumental groups including the wind ensemble. These students, conducted by Mr. Burkle, played their hearts out in the fall's musical, "The Sound of Music" and performed in the second pops concert. The Jazz Ensemble showed L.H.S. what they were made of during their fantastic performances. Led by Mr. Mucci, Jazz Ensemble is the replacement for last years "Jesters." This group practices after school and at home to perfect their sound.

Longmeadow High School's wind ensemble is aiming for the top this year. Even though the group of 45 students was greatly reduced since last year, their concert performances are superb. Mr. Burkle said that the musicians all practice diligently, and that he enjoys working with them.

With all the effort put into the music it is no wonder Longmeadow has one of the finest music departments in the state.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

The hills were alive with "The Sound of Music" this fall at LHS. Produced under the direction of Mr. Michael Mucci, Peter Thomsen, and Wilfred Burkle, this popular musical involved over 200 talented students. Mr. Mucci said that he enjoyed working on the play and its success was due to the combined efforts of everyone. Zina Butsky who played Maria Rainer and Kurt Suhs who played Captain George Von Trapp, both gave outstanding performances. They were aided by an excellent cast that included Dana Hartigan as Sister Berthe, Beverly Zeroogian as Sister Margaretta, Cathy Bisikirski as Mother Abbess, Jamie Sirkin as Sister Sophia, Howard Odentz as Franz, Jill Staples as Fran Schmidt, Peggy Creed as Leisl, Ray Lyons as Friedrich, Kim Sweet as Louisa, David Lapides as Kurt, Susan Cohn as Brigitta, Maura Malone as Marta, Susan Dropkin as Gretl, Peter Asselin as Rolf Gruber, Jed Tick as Max Metweiler, David Pratt as Herr Zeller, Nancy Jennings as Frau Zeller, Stuart Getsov as Baron Elberfield, Trish Yacavone as Baroness Elberfield, Daryl Kreiling as Elsa Schroeder, Val Feinstein as Ursula, Lillian Butsky as a postulant, and Pat Ratkowski as Admiral Von Schreiber.

Experience Abroad

The American Field Service Club organizes foreign student exchanges. This year's foreign student exchanges are Miguel Solorzano from Guatemala and Sanja Trifunovic from Yugoslavia. Two students from the class of 1979 went to study abroad this year. Karen Muller resides in Finland and Cindy Aivalis is staying in Denmark. A present senior, Dana Hartigan, spent the past summer with a family in Turkey. Not only does AFS exchange students, it also sponsors various activities. Club members organized two bake sales, a traditional annual fair, and an exchange dinner for foreign students from all over New England. In the future they hope to have domestic exchange in addition to a foreign exchange. AFS is advised by Ms. Finn-Pierce and Mr. McKenna. The senior officers are Presidents Sue and Cathy Wojcik, Treasurer and Secretary, Jean Franson, and Vice President Linda Shear. AFS gives students an excellent opportunity to experience different cultures and provides a few special students with the chance to actually experience the culture by spending some time in a foreign land.

MINIMUM WAGE

"Working for Minimum Wage has become the motto for a good number of LHS students, who work part time. Often these students spend long and tedious hours on these jobs, given up most of their free time and making many sacrifices and revisions of lifestyles: rushing right out of school, missing those big football and basketball games, turning down a night out with friends, or missing the big weekend parties. However, in spite of these drawbacks, more and more LHS students voluntarily venture into the working field. The benefits are great; new skills are learned, new people are met, and new experiences are lived. Moreover, most workers agree that the money they earn is the greatest benefit of all. It gives them a chance to spend or save "freely;" for a new car, a new stereo, new clothes, or future investments, like college. These well deserved rewards become even more important than the consequences; little social life, sore and aching feet, tired eyes. As one student put it, "Most of my free time is taken from me, but as much as I complain, it all seems worthwhile as I look at my check. More importantly, it gives the satisfaction of doing something independently, being able to say 'I earned it myself!'"

Talented Hands at Work

Art Club is back. Last year Art Club was missing from the line of extra-curricular activities, but this year the group has reformed with about twenty members. The club is advised by Rudy Katz who said that, "The club is self directed. I'm just there to help them over the rough spots." This year the Art Club actively participated in workshops where they met weekly to work on projects like weaving, silk-screening, and T-shirt designs. Mrs. Lamontagne, a special guest of the club, visited several times to teach techniques in weaving. Meetings are conducted by Sheri Cohen, president and Jodi Meyers, secretary. Both, along with other members, are planning on painting a mural in the teachers' cafeteria, as well as taking several trips to art museums in Boston and New York.

The Masacksic Theater Group, formerly known as the Drama Club, has had a very successful year. They have participated in many activities such as the Massachusetts One-Act Play Competition with the one-act play, "You Have to Stay on the Horse." They have also attended such workshops as The Massachusetts Drama Guild and The University of Massachusetts New England Theater Conference. Mrs. Satta, the sponsor says that she enjoys working with club members because they work very hard and are very enthusiastic. Working along with Mrs. Satta are President Nancy Jennings, Vice-President Valerie Feinstein, Executive Vice-President Chris Gentes, Secretary Cindy Hafer and Treasurer Scott Grasso.

Definition: Yearbook homeroom, 1. chaos unlimited. 2. mass mayhem. 3. Fractured frustrations. 4. outrageous outbursts. 5. deleted expletives.

Every day, after school, about 35 students crowd into room 110 to work on the Longmeadow High School yearbook. Usually Masacksic is taken for granted by the student body; yet more work goes into this book than most people would ever realize. Although to some the yearbook is just another photo album, to the creators it is invaluable as a piece of art. The most important aspect of this production is learning to work together: staff members, editors, advisor.

Masacksic, a valuable publication to everyone, vividly records the events of the past year, taking all aspects of LHS and putting them into a cohesive unit. Each year Masacksic improves: new techniques, new styles, new ideas.

The many circles of creativity — layouts, cover design, color pages, dividers, copy, art work — blend into one final circle of harmony: Masacksic.

Covering the Scene . . .

At the fourth annual Holyoke Community College Conference, the Jet Jotter won "Best All Around Newspaper." In addition to this award they also placed first for editorials, features, sports photography, and sports stories.

"Our competition was quite stiff, and that makes our award even more valuable. The Jet Jotter is the product of a team effort; every staff member contributed to our success," commented editor Alan Greenspan.

Again this year the Jet Jotter informed Longmeadow High School students about school activities, current events, and sports. They also featured a monthly focus in which students were able to express their opinions on various issues such as space exploration, ERA, etc. Editor Alan Greenspan and faculty advisor Mr. John Fitzgerald were instrumental in encouraging the staff to apply "high standards in journalism," making each issue better than the previous one.

A Gold Star for Service

The LHS Key Club, an organization which serves the school and community, comprises of seventy-nine members filled with dynamic drive and determination. Led by advisor Mr. Climo and President Steve Burnett, together with vice-presidents David Pratt and J.B. Lyons, secretary Paul Liebman, and treasurer Mark Cohen, the LHS Key Club carried out many functions throughout the school year. Fund raisers for Cerebral Palsy and the Toys for Tots proved to be very successful. The Key Clubbers have continued to visit the Shriners' Children's Hospital every Sunday morning. They also ran concessions during home football and basketball games. Perhaps the most time-consuming and fulfilling event that the Club participated in was the Variety Show which took place in the spring. Revealing complete cooperation and commitment, the Key Club has continued to fulfill its duties as a service to the school, to the town, and to the community.

Service With a Smile

Although all schools have their own service organizations, we have the best: Keyettes. Supervised by Mrs. Rakhonen, the club's seventy-five girls are involved in many important projects. Led by four competent leaders, Laura Poppo as president; Kathy Padwater as vice-president; Kara Pennington as secretary; and Becca Jones as treasurer; the girls had a very successful year. Meetings were held each Monday night in room 231 to complement the daily homeroom sessions. Major projects of the past year included the Bloodmobile, which attracted more donors than ever before; the "Smoke Out" a successful anti-smoking project led by Mary Kannovis and Becca Jones; and Parents' Night. Some long-term projects included visiting the Jewish Nursing Home and the Ring Nursing Home periodically, and serving as baby sitters during coffee hours. Keyettes help others often through fund raising projects, which proved to be great fun for the girls as well as beneficial to the community.

HOBBIES

It's 2:15. School is over. There is still time before dinner and homework can wait. This free time, along with weekends, becomes very important to students with special hobbies or interests. Besides playing sports or being in clubs, students use their free time in many unusual and interesting ways. Many students ride horses and compete in shows. Volunteering in nursing homes or in hospitals is also very common. Dancing is another popular hobby and students dance for companies or just for themselves. We have fencers and karate experts at our school. Many people are models around this area and even in New York. Another popular activity is collecting objects such as beer cans, unusual coins, stamps, silver spoons, or other old nostalgia. True talent is apparent in devoted musicians and artists who put much time and effort into their hobbies. This great variety of extracurricular activities continues to expand, and more and more, people are becoming involved in unusual and enjoyable hobbies.

You Bet Your Golden Tassles

National Honor Society is comprised of slightly over one hundred students including two A.F.S. and two Y.F.U. honorary members. To become a member of N.H.S., a student must be scholastically eligible, juniors needing sixteen points and seniors needing eighteen points at the beginning of their junior and senior years respectively. President Bill Sherman, Vice-president Linda Shear, Secretary Brooke Kirke, Treasurer Andy Bazos, and Social Secretary Martha Lamarre, with the assistance of advisors Mrs. Dudley and Mrs. Dolgin, led the club in such projects as helping run the school bookstore, raising money for scholarship students to get to school, running an alumni reception for all past N.H.S. members, and participating in a swim-a-thon for Easter Seals. N.H.S. also provides a tutoring service, led this year by Lisa Griffin and Carolyn Connell, which is set up to help those students identified by the Middle Schools as needing help and those who volunteer or are suggested by teachers to receive aid. as in the past, N.H.S. has proved to be one of the most successful and helpful organizations at L.H.S.

Literary Talent

The Outlet staff, a group of creative people, produces Longmeadow High School's literary-art review magazine Outlet, published annually. Students throughout the school submit literature, art, and photography, the best of which is printed in the magazine. Club advisor Ms. Linda McShane said, "Outlet is a good club because the people are involved in something creative. The students who submit work are proud of it. Kids like to see their work in a published product. A main concern for the Outlet Club is that their magazine is not seen by very many people. With the realization of the magazines existence, more serious students would get involved. Led by General Editor Mandy Knights, Literary Editor Jill Staples, and Art Editor Maggie Raker, Outlet lives up to its name because it provides an "outlet" for the students to display their diverse talents in the arts. The club usually attends the A.I.C. Journalism Conference and will possibly attend an art fair to be concurrent with the spring publication of the magazine.

ABC is a national organization that provides an opportunity for students from disadvantaged urban areas to receive a better high school education. This year the ABC students came from New York and Ohio. They worked enthusiastically on all phases of school life at LHS. Among this year's special projects were the traditional basketball game, tag sale, and ABC road race. These activities helped to provide the necessary funds to maintain the group. Advisor Mr. Troy helps to organize and encourage ABC activities as do Stuart and Brenda Ross, the resident directors.

Plenty Of Balloons, And Lots Of Spirit!!

Spirit links, Daisy-Weeds, floats, football, spirit: all of these mean Homecoming at L.H.S. As always, the Lancer-Spartan football game was the highlight of the weekend, but this year it reached even more fantastic heights: we won!!! Setting the mood for our great football victory the spirit links competition saw a last minute effort by the Senior Class who just nipped the Juniors.

Saturday morning after months of tedious labor the class floats paraded in review, each class thinking that their entry was the best. Confirmed by the magnificent colors and workmanship, the judges had a difficult decision; however, they chose the Sophomore float as best.

As the day progressed, spirit grew; everyone could see why we are all proud to be a part of L.H.S. The Daisy-Weed game played by the Senior girls and cheered on by the Senior boys, delighted everyone — except, perhaps the Daisies, who lost. Homecoming has always been an exciting part of student life at L.H.S. In the future, the school will continue this tradition which gets better and better each year.

Foreign Language Experience

"Auyda" means Help in Spanish. This new language club, formed by Mr. Mike McCarthy, meets once a week in the sunny atmosphere of room 211. The club was formed for Spanish I students who wish to seek further understanding of the Spanish language and the Hispanic culture. The president of the club is Greg Tougas, Vice-president is Melissa Doyle, secretary is Hillary Osgood, and treasurer is Tom Jagodowski.

The Latin Club is alive and well at L.H.S! This club, advised by Mr. Emile Kahan, met monthly at the high school. The club, although a small group, kept very busy visiting the museum in Boston to learn more of ancient Latin culture and civilization. They also visited U. Mass and participated in "Classics Day" as members of the Pioneer Valley Classical Association. The day involved lectures, movies, quizzes and fun for all involved.

Disco music, which became so popular during the late seventies, formed the basis for the current L. H. S. Dance Club. Beginning in 1979 with its emphasis on disco and jazz, the club is now involved with tap and musical exercises. Advisor, Miss Ann Bailey, said that, "This club was organized to bring students together who have a common interest in dance."

Led by President Karen Grant, V.P. Pirena Norton, Secretary Darlene Abney, Treasurer Michelle Quinn, and coordinators Monica Paige, Alan Burton, and Karen Campbell, the club participated in Variety '80 and held dances as fund raisers. As a special event, a professional instructor came to a meeting of the club, and taught several new dances to the members.

"Leaders In Athletics"

When you see white shorts and a white t-shirt with black and red piping you know there's a member of leaders club around. The Leaders are a group of junior and senior boys and girls who help gym teachers during P.E. classes. These students, instead of electing a Physical Education course, get credit for their duties in the gym, helping with volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, and other gym classes. Advised by Coach Dagastino and Ms. Linda Segur these 20 students add considerably to the Physical Education program.

How do you spell adventure? Outing Club. This year the Outing Club set out on a series of exciting journeys designed to enhance the appreciation of nature among each member of the club. Mr. Ronald Hirsch, the club's advisor, insists that as much physical strength and ability are needed in the Outing Club as in competitive sports. For example, the two day canoe trip, the two separate day hikes, the three day backpacking overnight, and the rock-climbing outing were strenuous as well as fun. In addition to these outdoor activities, the club also conducted a slide show on skiing and preparation for a winter weekend.

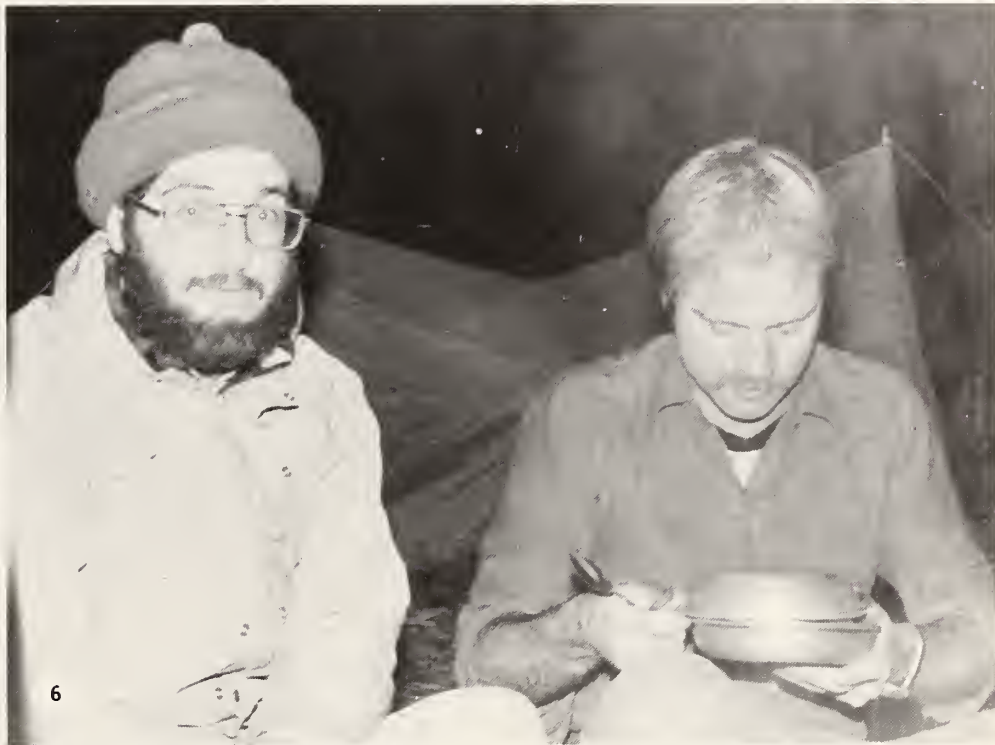

Mr. Hirsch added that there is a sense of community spirit on trips among the Outing Club members. Hopefully in the future years the club will grow and everyone involved can experience a sense of enjoyment and cooperation.

Snow At Last!!

The slopes came to life as almost 100 Ski Clubbers from L.H.S. challenged the trails of Maunt Tam, mostly on man-made snow. Led by advisor Mr. Mel Grant, the Ski Club participated in a five week program that skied Mt. Tam every Tuesday. The skills in this exciting club range from novice to expert, allowing anyone who dares to join in the fun. Even the chaperanes like Mrs. Jane Murphy, Mr. Pete Thomsen, Mr. Bab Patvin, Mr. Al Jangl, and Mr. Ray McKenna always looked forward to a great afternoons of thrills and spills.

Though Ski Club was off to a slow start because of warm weather and no snow, this enthusiastic group made up for lost time by visiting Berkshire East and ski areas in Vermont. A great year in the sun and snow!

Everyday after school, ten to fifteen dedicated athletes train for indoor track, a club sport at L.H.S. Rigorous training culminates in meets on Saturday mornings and Friday nights at U.Mass and Amherst College. Advised by Mr. Williams, this tenacious group is fighting the School Committee to be recognized as a formal team. And they are indeed talented: Martha Tripp nearly always wins first place for her high jump ability; Andy Maslow runs a lightning thousand meters; Lauren L'Esperance and Doreen Labate run the mile in a quick time; Tim Sterritt flies through the mile.

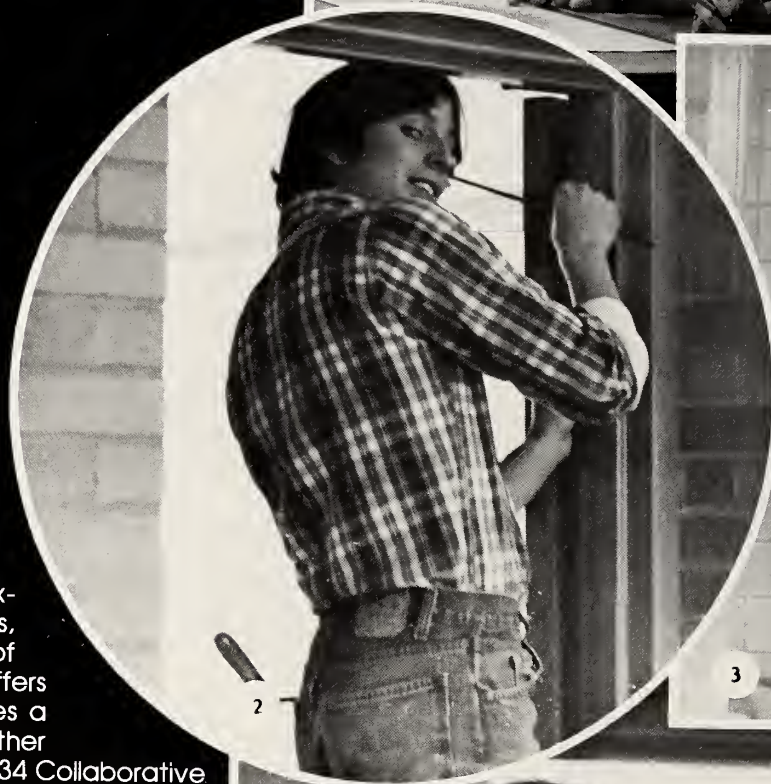

Track Is Where It's At

(1) Denise Magnum and Aileen Secundo pause between runs. (2) Sue Hotaling and Amy Sands take a tumble before heading off for the slopes. (3) Some of the many Ski Club members: row 1: 1 for: K. Cardoropoli, J. Jones, C. Anerson, S. Hotaling, A. Sands, S. Ravosa, F. Skoler, A. Skoler, T. Cheskin, Row 2: K. Zimmerman, B. Sharpiro, K. Sweet, J. Rico. (4) Sue Hotaling and Bill Lincoln take a break at the bottom of the hill. (5) Fred Skoler smiles as he nears the bottom of the hill. (6) Indoor Track team captains, Dan Maney and Andy Maslow flex their muscles. (7) Indoor Track Team: Row 1: Left to Right: P. Welch, M. Hurwitz, F. Moran. Row 2: K. Noel, D. LaBate, L. L'Esperance, Coach Dave Williams. Row 3: J. Pollack, C. Nicholsan, D. Maney. Row 4: M. Tripp, A. Burton, A. Maslow, T. Sterritt. (8) Alan Burton warms up before a meet. (9) Doreen Labate relaxes after a race. (10) Coach Williams sizes up the line-up.

COLLABORATIVE

The Collaborative program at Longmeadow High School, run by Mrs. Gertrude C. Blakeborough is an exciting way for students to gain experience, as apprentices, in their chosen fields of work. This program offers background for the trades a student will study in further specialized schools. The 34 Collaborative students take their required majors in the morning, followed by a short career education course. After lunch, students board the bus that takes them to their respective places of learning. Receiving 15 credits for their work in the program, the students study graphic arts, food service, automotive, electronic assembly, nursing, drafting, and building trades. Collaborative is a very popular and essential learning experience for students who are not interested in four years of college.

METCO

Out of 104 Metco Students bussed from Springfield to Longmeadow daily, 17 attend Longmeadow High School. Mr. Hilton White, the Longmeadow Metco Counselor, acts as advisor for the students throughout the town's eight schools. He assists the students in school matters and offers helpful advice in planning successful school careers. A raffle was held to benefit the Metco seniors, enabling them to visit colleges in the Atlanta, GA. area, and the winners received beneficial scholarships. Even though the students live in Springfield, they are involved with activities in Longmeadow High School and in the local community. The Metco students are part of the close-knit L.H.S. society and enjoy participating in the total school experience.

(1) M. Catugno and C. Caruso work on graphic arts design. (2) P. Picard takes time out to smile while replacing a screw. (3) H. Thorburn does some work. (4) R. Emery works at a construction site. (5) K. Paskins pauses during lunch. (6) M. Edmonds and G. Paige study in the cafeteria. (7) Metco students: l to r: Row 1: S. Williams, J. Kelly, G. Paige, J. Little, M. Paige, T. Little, N. Perish, B. Johnson. Row 2: A. Brown, M. Edmonds, C. Edmonds, C. Jennings, F. Brown, P. Ray. (8) S. Harris (9) Advisor H. White talks with C. Edmonds.

Match Your Wits

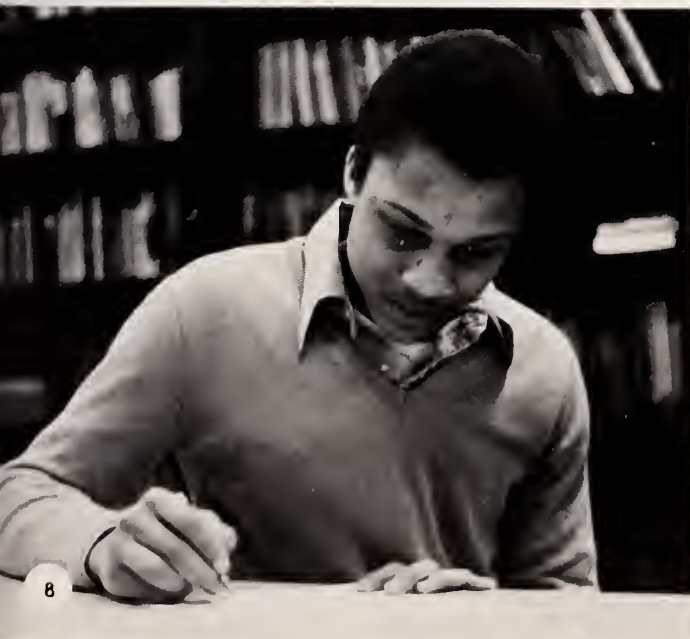

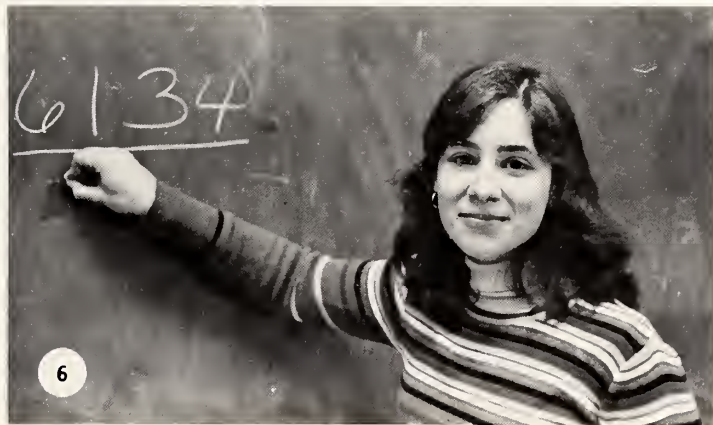

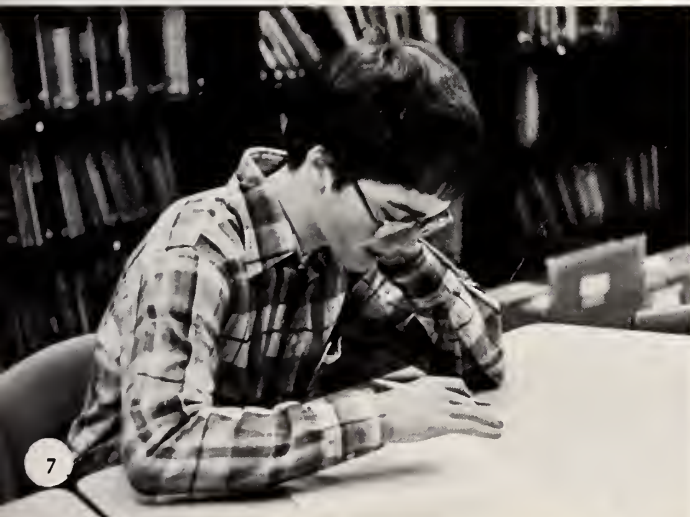

Encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases: when you hear these words, you probably think of the L.H.S. "As Schools Match Wits Team" and their four regular members; Bill Sherman, Jeff Jones, Brian Cantor, and Bob Cohen. In each match participants answer short recall type questions in categories such as history, literature, geography, and sports. Prior to appearing on the TV show for their match with Hopkins, the group participated in a practice match against the faculty (the students won!). Advisor Mrs. Sandra Topfer commented that, "This year's team was a good one; they worked to the best of their ability and that's all one can ask for."

Again this year the L.H.S. Math team is off and calculating! "The purpose of the Math Team," according to Roland Smith, "is to see how well each school is teaching math. It's like a football game to see who's the best." Advisor for the team is Mr. Dave Daniels, head of the math department. Once a month, about seven members get together to prepare for a math match. Although they are not forced to study for a match, each member takes it upon himself to study for the benefit of the team. The team usually finishes in the top five.

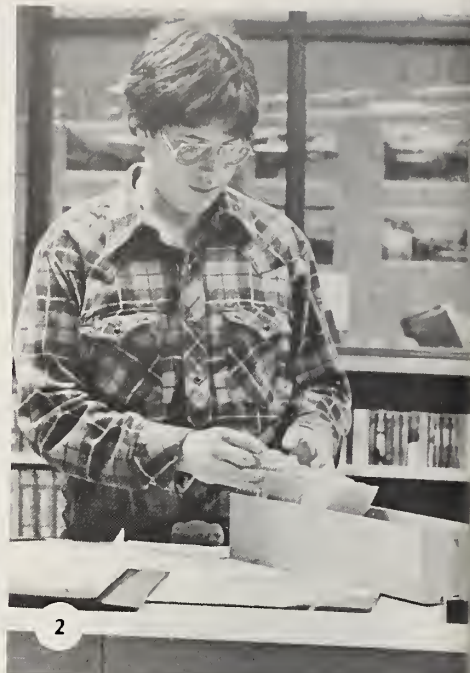

The Problems We've Had

(1) Members of "As Schools Match Wits" LtoR: Robert Cohen, Brian Cantor, Advisor Mrs. Taepfer, Jeff Jones, Bill Sherman. (2) Bill Sherman studies for his upcoming match. (3) Mrs. Taepfer quizzes Jeff Jones. (4) Brian Cantor represents the group at Parent's Night. (5) Math Team Members: LtoR: Roland Smith, Martha LaMarre, Advisor Mr. Dave Daniels, Roland Ouellette, and Gary King. (6) Roland Ouellette pours over a difficult math problem. (7) Linda Shear works out a math problem before an upcoming meet. (8) Roland Smith, ABC student, sizes up the problems before him.

Special Departments

Library Aids are a small group of students who help out our library staff perform a series of jobs which include processing books, putting magazines in chronological order, covering the circulation desk and bringing the scrapbook up to date. Advisor Mrs. Pratt praised the group of aids saying she and the library staff "love having them and their help is invaluable."

A.V.? What is it? One of the most unknown but most helpful groups in the school is the Audio Visual group. Under the guidance of Mr. Merrill Oltchick, six students led by Chris Loughman, tape T.V. programs for classes in L.H.S. and other schools in the system. They also transfer films to video tape and video tape football games for the coaches. Besides these duties A.V.'ers manage to produce a T.V. show (54-Minutes) and to set up the P.A. system at football games and town meetings. These students gain experience working with video and audio visual equipment while they help out the school.

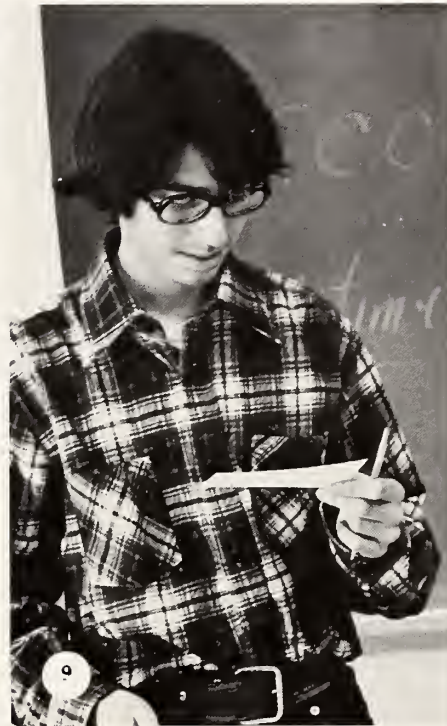

The L.H.S. Debate Team is back! The Debate team at L.H.S. coached by Mr. Peter Bergeron, holds hour long debates at each meet. The format consists of four constructive speeches, cross examinations and four rebuttals. Split into two teams, an affirmative team supported by Robert Cohen, and Tracy Hatch, and a negative team supported by Robert Barnshaw, Paul Everett and David Hatch, the club attended a National High School Debate Tournament at U.Mass at Amherst on November 11, 1979. They also participated in the Connecticut Valley Debate League, debating the question, "Should the United States significantly change its foreign trade policies?"

After a years absence from the league competition, the Debate Team made a surprisingly strong comeback, placing fourth in the league.

(1) A.V. aides: Row 1 L to R: K. Kelleher, D. Sturtivent, S. Becker, Row 2: R. Savary, B. Loughman, S. Pelletier. (2) Larry Krainson organizes the card catalog. (3) Library aides: L to R: Larry Krainson, Miguel Solorzane, Liz Woods. (4) Liz Woods checks out a students book while Miguel looks on. (5) Debate Team members prepare their notes before the debate begins. (6) Tracy Hatch smiles before her speech. (7) Bob Cohen prepares his position. (8) Debate Team L to R: Bob Cohen, Tracy Hatch, Advisor Mr. Paul Bergeron, Paul Everett, David Hatch, and Judge Mr. Frank Girona.

As another year spirals to an end, we look back upon it with mixed feelings. We are proud to have represented the faculty and student body of LHS, but we are somewhat apprehensive in our attempts to capture the dizzying gyres of the school year. The staff worked very hard to produce this book. 10 monthes or approximately 500 man (student) hours went into Masacksic 1980. We hope that we succeeded to display successfully all the circles of LHS through our theme.

Our special thanks to the following.

Without any of you we wouldn't have made it!
